BUSINESS SOLUTION TECHNOLOGIES WELCOMES GABRIELA NORIEGA AS PROJECT MANGER

HONOLULU – Business Solution Technologies (BST), a Hawaii-based information technology (IT) consulting firm, announced today that Gabriela Noriega has joined the company as a project manager. Noriega will provide her expertise to BST’s clients in project and program management for large-scale IT projects.

“We are excited to have Gabriela join our team with her background in managing technology product development projects and her work as a quality engineer,” said John Weldon, president of BST. “Her ability to understand the design, development and management aspects of our client projects, and her expertise with successfully leading large cross-functional teams is a tremendous resource for BST and our clients.”

Noriega recently relocated to Hawai’i and has more than eight years of experience working in the technology product development field for InvenSense and Analog Devices, where she was based in the Boston area. She was previously a senior program manager and led product development teams for next-generation semiconductor microphones.

A graduate of Rochester Institute of Technology, Noriega earned her bachelor’s degree in electrical engineering with a biomedical option. She also holds a master’s degree in engineering
